MAKE THE PUPILS THE CENTRE OF ALL TEACHING ACTIVITIES

The Year Book
of
Class 1925-1926

Published by
Students of the Normal School, London

By their fruits ye shall know them, for a good teacher has the ability to cultivate in each member of his class the power to apply information to life.

Valedictory

THE class of 1925-26 stands to-day as so many others have stood before, hesitant, at portals opening upon a glorious vista—a world to conquer; hesitant between contending emotions; for is not this the dreamed of hour—the day of fulfilment; but is it not also, alas, the day of parting. We may well say "Hail and Farewell." Hail to our future which is, at best, a vague, uncertain thing; and farewell to the happiest year of our life. A year filled with a thousand memories to be always cherished. We have left behind the days when we first came to drink more deeply of the springs of knowledge and learning.

The year has flown with amazing speed, but it was a fruitful year and will be our inspiration for the years to come, for it was during this year that we received the incentive to make the most of ourselves and our opportunities. All our future actions will be associated with and shaped by our days at the London Normal School in an effort to attain to that ideal of Christian teachers. How often will we be reminded of the words of wisdom and counsel stored in our hearts during this year; or cause to rise before us the memory of the many functions, when we made merry with our fellow-students in those care-free days!

We are ever grateful to the worthy members of the staff, who have so faithfully prepared us for the future and who have never spared themselves when our welfare was in question.

It is here that friendships have been formed which time will strengthen. It is here that our perplexities have been met with understanding and the intricate paths of learning made smooth. Here the intellectual and social sides of life, developed each in its due measure, have contributed to prepare us for the larger world outside.

Here ideals have been held before us which inspired us with a noble enthusiasm to set out upon the one high road to true happiness and true success in life—for it is not so much what we do but what we are that matters.

Thus we stand at the parting of the ways and, although the future for us may not be a very brilliant one, we shall try at least to have always before us the ideals inculcated in the London Normal School.

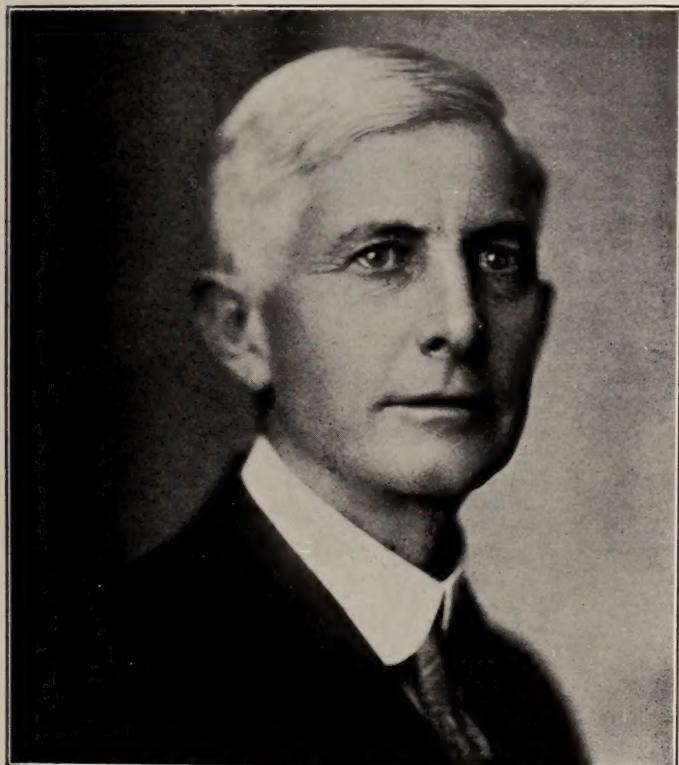

To our painstaking and inspiring masters, who so earnestly instructed us in the various branches of learning, we extend our hearty thanks

Appreciating the happy year at L. N. S., which has taught us that, while no life is exempt from the vicissitudes of fortune, the vital issues are under the control of our free-will, may we not, as we look towards the future, confidently hope for great things.

OUR SCHOOL

Introduction

“Because I would be young in soul and mind,
Though years must pass and age my life constrain,
And I have found no way to lag behind
The fleeting years, save by the magic chain
That binds me, youthful, to the youth I love, I teach.”
—L. B. Woodward.

THE graduating class is about to make a new venture in life, namely, to make a living, and to continue an old venture, to live safely. On behalf of the staff I wish the members of the class success in both. I believe that the majority will succeed in the former—a burden difficult enough—and I trust they will also accomplish the latter—a more trying and important task.

For youth I have the greatest respect, not because it is always wise or prudent, or sane, or temperate, but because it is always alert, ever exuberant, continually optimistic and congenitally cheerful; I admire its dreams and its ambitions: Thus it is that I am much interested in the future of the young people of whose doings for the last year this little book is a souvenir.

"A sound mind in a sound body is a short but full description of a happy state in this world"—Locke.

THIS doctrine has been maintained from the earliest pages of Ancient History, throughout the period of mediaeval times, finally coming down to us in this modern era untrammelled, but more and more grandly glorified. To keep the body strong and healthy tends gradually towards the development of a sound mind capable of meeting problems in life and dealing squarely with these problems. The ability of a person to solve such problems successfully, leads certainly towards happiness, the greatest asset in the world, to-day.

With this end in view, early in the year the Girls' Athletic Association was formed. At its head, was Miss Norma Hackett, elected president of the organization. Efficiently and with enthusiasm, Miss Hackett, in addition, filled the position of coach and referee for the basket ball team. As assistant coach, Mr. McKone lent very valuable assistance in the way of fast team work and graceful attempts to drop the ball through the netting of the standard rings.

The basket ball team included in its forward line Miss Jean Corley, Miss Era Madill, Miss Alice Williamson, and Miss Mary Wigle as substitute player. Miss Gertrude Tanner, Miss Clara Moore, Miss Hilda Layman, and Miss Edna Cobban as substitute player, comprised the defense.

After several practices, Jean Corley was elected unanimously to the position of captain, because of her enthusiasm over the game, good sportsmanship, and exceptional ability in scoring.

In Era Madill we found a very enthusiastic forward of the team. At all times she filled the position of jumping centre very successfully.

The smallest player on the team, and very active—"a flash on the court," was Alice Williamson, who also graced the position of forward.

Mary Wigle, always ever-ready-on-the-job, performed the duties of the substitute forward gracefully and willingly. She played the running shot which seldom failed to score.

A clean, steady player was Gertrude Tanner, who held a strong position in the defense. She always played the game, never wearying in well-doing.

Clara Moore was another strong player for the defense. At all times an enthusiastic member of the team she played a dashing game, and seldom failed to make an effective pass.

Miss Hilda Layman, an energetic, willing player, soon won for herself a position in the defense line-up—always good-natured and a good loser.

As substitute guard, Edna Cobban filled the vacancy in the defense admirably.

In addition to the school senior team, each Form organized basket ball teams among the students who showed special interest in the game. Seven teams, accordingly, were organized—one from each of the seven Forms.

Many interesting games were played, both inside and outside of the school. The senior team did not play any games arranged by a special schedule, but from time to time, played many teams of note, under challenge. Many close battles were fought. In each game, the girls showed splendid combination and fast play. Jean Corley, on account of her unusual ability of shooting baskets, soon came to be recognized as star forward on the team. Once the ball was in Jean's hands, we were almost certain of scoring.

As a result of many challenges from the various University teams from the Arts classes of '26, '27, '28, '29, a series of fast, close games were played. These games took place, for the most part, in the Oxford Street gymnasium, and the Medical College gymnasium. Except in only a very few cases, the Normal team was successful. After each game, the remainder of the evening was spent in an informal manner. But it needs be mentioned that all the victories were not won outside of our own school. Here the Normal team fought hard for victories over London South Collegiate Institute, Central Collegiate Institute and the London Technical School.

Possibly the most interesting game played out-of-town was with the Strathroy Collegiate Institute. In this game the odds were against the Normal team, but good combination and teamwork never fail. As a result our team was successful, winning by several points.

At the close of the basket ball season and on the return of warm weather, the attention of all was turned to soft ball. Form teams were organized and some very exciting games played off.

But most outstanding of all features of the programme of the Girls' Athletic Association was "Bloomer Night." This function was well advertised throughout the school for some time before the event took place, an invitation being extended to all the girls in the school. The result was a large "turn-out." The first part of the entertainment was held in the Auditorium, everyone enjoyed a most delightful programme of vocal solos, readings, pantomimes, folk-dancing, and community singing. At the conclusion of the programme, all proceeded to the Gymnasium, where an hour was spent most enjoyably in games, after which a light lunch was served.

The Athletic Association of 1925-26 Class was one of the most successful organizations in the history of the London Normal School. Not only do sports add to the pleasure of those who participate in them it is one of the distinct factors in school spirit.

From the field, and from the plough,
From ever and afar they came,
To get some wisdom 'neath their brow,
Lest they should be to blame.

IN an institution like the Normal School where the students stay only one year, (or two at most) it seemed quite a problem to get a start in Athletics, and to make a real live issue of the matter. We came here in the fall knowing hardly anyone, so first arose the question of finding out who were and who were not athletically inclined.

Our year's activities really began with the party held on the lawn during the first week of school. Those games were the commencement of our season's sports, serving as an introduction to what was to follow.

A short time after this, when the boys had gotten somewhat "into the run" of things concerning school life, a Boys' Athletic Society was formed. In fact both the Boys' and Girls' Athletics were organized at about the same time. The officers of this society, elected, were Mr. Jack Burke, president; Mr. W. Turner, secretary-treasurer, and these have assuredly done their best to put the Society over the top.

As soon as the young men had settled down a little into the ordinary routine of school life the matter of sports was taken up in a truly earnest manner. It being then quite late in the season attention was focused on basket ball. The gymnasium became the scene of frequent practices where the budding stars busily attempted to perfect their technique.

So, in November, a team to represent the school, was picked. Gillis McCubbin was named manager and captain. The others were: Alex. Bolton, who played with McCubbin in the forward division; "Bill" Turner, the lanky centre; Arthur Brown and Ewart Nicol for the defense end; and Smith and Randolph for spares.

Almost at once the team started playing. A number of practice games were held, and before Christmas the group had developed quite good form. London South Boys played the Normalites a couple of good games before this first term ended. The Normal boys came out ahead both times, yet they found the L. S. C. I. team no mean antagonists.

After Christmas the games came thick and fast. There seemed to be no trouble in finding anyone to play against. The Y Juniors played the Normal boys here in our own gymnasium, losing out to them with a score of 12-14. A couple of nights later the Westervelts played against the team winning with a score of 20 to 16. Two weeks later the boys redeemed themselves by holding the Nikators Club to a score of 17 to 19 in our favor.

The boys of the Class of Arts '26 staged a game with the Normal boys at the Oxford St. gymnasium. Arts '26 came out on the small end of a 21 to 4 score. In return for the defeat handed out to them before, the Westervelts held the Normal team down to 11 points, they themselves tallying up 20 points in a game at Oxford gymnasium.

One of the few outside games participated in was with the Sarnia St Paul's team. They came to London on the twelfth of February only to be beaten by the Normalites, 17 to 12. The clever combinations worked at this game were mostly responsible for the Normal victory.

But London Central put a team in the field that our men could not beat handily. In the two games played L. C. C. I. lost the first, 10 to 9, and won the second 26 to 8. It seemed that the Normal team was possessed by some hoodoo in the last game. The first time the players worked together splendidly and the last, they worked together not at all.

GIRLS' TEAM

From London Technical boys the Normal team won a good game, 24 to 16.

One of the most interesting games and perhaps one with the most surprising result was played with the C. O. T. C. team. When the Normal men came out on the big end of the score, there was enthusiastic cheering. Against such a practised and heavy team this win helped greatly to give the L. N. S. boys confidence in themselves. In the return game with the C. O. T. C. played in the Normal gymnasium, the home team again came out victorious.

Although the Arts '26 team went down to defeat before the onslaught of the Normal, Arts '27 showed no inclination to do the same. They easily held our boys on the wrong side of a 24 to 14 tally.

As one of the last games of the season the Normal lads journeyed to Strathroy, there to play the C. I. team, but, alas! they ruined most of their reputation by allowing the Strathroy team to defeat them 22 to 12.

* * * * *

In addition to there being a school team, there was also Interform basket ball. As an added incentive to the game, Ralph Heal offered a trophy to the winning team. Forms II., III. and VII. all had teams in the running. III. and VII. played off the final. Form VII. winning the cup. In all, these games were exceedingly interesting and provided no little amusement.

During the winter a hockey team, under the management of Tom Fillmore, was organized. Thames Park provided a suitable place for practice. Several promising players were discovered and the game showed great promise. But, it being quite late in the winter, before the team got under way, only a few games were staged.

The Basket Ball Team

McCUBBIN—"Yea, Gillis, thou art indeed a wise man!" As manager and captain of the team Gillis showed himself up to advantage. He played with Bolton in the forward division. Coming from Strathroy, he showed that he at least knew how to handle a basket ball team.

BOLTON—"Alex." too, came from Strathroy Collegiate. He played forward extremely well, rarely missing a shot. He seemed to have some power over the ball, dropping it in the basket as easily from one position as another. He and McCubbin worked well together.

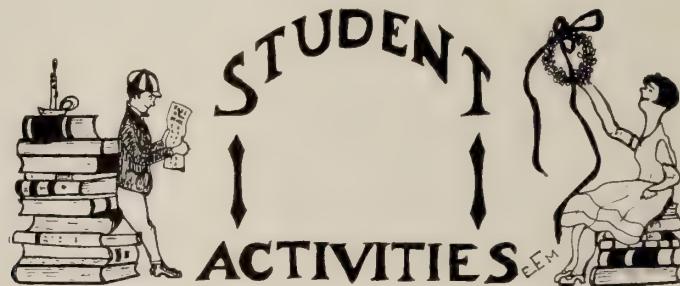

TURNER—"And William comes from Fingal Town." "Bill" plays centre well, it being difficult to get the jump on him. As the year went on he developed quite accurate shooting ability.

NICOL—Ewart G. Nicol has also proved himself in the Literary Society. He makes a husky guard, making as good a job of basket ball as he did managing the Lit.

BROWN—A new man brought into the game this year, Arthur showed amazing ability. In a pinch "Art." could turn in as centre. Some of his combination plays were extremely good.

SMITH—And still another Strathroy man. Smith takes either forward position well and is a very good shot.

RANDOLPH came to us from Sarnia. He makes a good guard. He plays well in any combination work.

The Literary Society

FORMING the hub and centre core from which all our student activities radiated was the "Literary Society."

Friday afternoon was always anticipated with pleasure by everybody. The school year was divided into two terms—Fall and Spring.

So well did the officers fill their roles, not to forget the unselfish and unceasing efforts of the members, that Hallowe'en, Christmas, Easter, and June seemed to follow in rapid succession.

"Variety is the spice of life," was the motto of the executive. Never did we have to sit with that bored look on our faces and patiently wait for the "motion to adjourn." Originality and genius were at a premium. Something new was always in store. No matter what had gone before, the future was never a repetition of the past.

As the weeks rolled on and those last signs of nervousness and homesickness began to disappear, new talent was gradually unfurled. Promising musicians, orators, debaters and actors entertained us with their talent. To give individual praise would be to praise all.

A welcome addition to the programme was "The Howler," our school paper. All through the school year we have had much reason to be most grateful to the skilled and faithful members of this organization, special gratitude should be bestowed on our talented editor.

Let us now give a very brief resume of the outstanding social events of the year:—

The first event of our 1925-26 Normal School Year was a "get acquainted" party. Held on the school campus. The event took the form of a lawn social. Here names and addresses were displayed on one's clothing, and all added to their list of acquaintances. Interform sports and refreshments followed.

The summit of Springbank Hill was the location of our next function. The topmost point having been reached, we had a weiner roast. After the refreshments we adjourned to the pavilion where the students of Westervelts joined us. A dance filled the remainder of the evening.

London's streets were deserted when weird bands wended their way toward the Normal School. Ghosts, fairies, elves, goblins and many other fantastical creatures were included in the intermittent throngs. Who were these people? They were the costumed students on Hallowe'en Eve. Once within the portals of the edifice, wraps were flung aside and they ascended to the assembly room. A specially prepared playlet supplemented with musical selections, entertained the throng. Following the programme a grand promenade occupied our time and interest. Refreshments completed the bill.

Without doubt the outstanding social success of the year was the "AT HOME." The Masonic Temple was the scene of this festival on February 5th. The success was due mainly to the untiring efforts of the various committees. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Streamers with coloured balloons attached, draped the walls and ceilings. Arches covered the entrances. The School emblem, "The Lamp of Knowledge" was prominently displayed in the foreground. Mr. E. G. Nichol, president of L. N. S. L. S., occupied the chair. The first part of the evening was filled with a varied collection of musical selections. The major part was filled with dancing and games. During the dancing refreshments were served on the lower floor.

The executive of the first and second terms of the Literary Society, along with the officers of the various other organizations of the school held a supper-dance in the Drake English Grill, on May the 5th.

We cannot close this necessary brief outline of Normal School Activities, without paying a tribute of gratitude to our Staff. Not only have we as students, received faithful and skilful instruction, but no labour or pains have been spared on their part to make our Literary Society a success. Their greatest reward will be that the students, having received so much at their hands, will carry away with them to disseminate in many a school room this fine spirit of helpfulness.

A PRESENTATION

A noteworthy event of the year and one unique in the history of the school was the presentation to the school by the students of a curtain for the stage of the auditorium at the last meeting of the Literary Society. The class of 1925-1926 made this little gift as a mark of appreciation of the benefits received during their year in the School.

Humor

WHEN JOKES WERE NEW.
Whatever trouble Adam had,
No man in days of yore
Could say when he had told a joke:
"I've heard that one before."

MR. DICKINSON—"What are pauses?"
ART ELDER—"They grow on cats."

MRS. JONES—"Really, Robert, it is too bad! This is the second time Tommy has been strapped because you couldn't do his vulgar fractions."

Wouldn't it be funny to see—
Mrs. Reid without a dust cloth?
Mrs. Barnhardt without holding some one's books.

A Normalite said to her father the other night:—"Father, I've a sentence here I'd like you to punctuate. You know something about punctuation, don't you?" "A little," said the cautious parent, as he took the slip of paper. This is what he read:—"A five-dollar bill flew around the corner." He studied it carefully.

"Well," he finally said, "I'd simply put a period after it." "I wouldn't," said the Normalite. "I'd make a dash after it."

"Six of my sons are studying to be school teachers and writers, the seventh is learning to be a bricklayer.

"Aren't you rather optimistic, thinking that he can support the six of them?"

HIS FATHER—"So you know as much as your teacher, do you? Where do you get that idea?"

BOBBY—"She told me so herself. She said 'she couldn't teach me nothin'.'"

MISS EVERSON—"Name three things containing starch."

MARY KING—"Two cuffs and a collar."

NICHOL—"The most forgiving animal in the zoo is the giraffe."

BALDWIN—"What makes you think that?"

NICHOL—"Why, my dear, he overlooks everything."

TURNER—"He's been sitting there all day, doin' nothin' but wastin' time."

BROWNE—"How do you know?"

TURNER—"Because I've been sittin' here watchin' him."

A city youngster was paying his first visit to his uncle's farm. Among the animals on the place was a rather small colt. As the boy stood gazing at the little creature, his uncle said: "Well, what do you think of him, Johnny?"

"Why—why, he's all right," said Johnny, "but where's his rockers?"

A pessimist says that if the world is better than it used to be, our ancestors must have been an awful bunch of toughs.

MR. PRENDERGAST—"What supports the sun in the sky?"

BESSIE EICHENBERGER—"It's beams, of course."

Four-year-old Bobby was stroking his cat before the fireplace, in perfect content. The cat, also happy, began to purr loudly. Bobby gazed at her for a while, then suddenly seized her and dragged her roughly away from the hearth. His mother interposed.

"You must not hurt kitty, Bobby."

"I'm not" Bobby protested, "but I've got to get her away from the fire. She's beginnin' to boil."

Why does a cook never make a square pudding?
Because she wants it to go round.

FAMOUS SAYINGS OF FAMOUS PEOPLE.

MR. PRENDERGAST—"Who saw the moon last night?"

MR. STEVENSON—"Now, now, that's pretty bad!"

DR. WHITE—"I don't know, you've never taught us that."

MR. CLARKE—"Come now, let's not waste time."

MR. MCKONE—"Let me beg, entreat, warn, persuade, and exhort you."

MR. MCEACHERN—"Let me see, where did we leave off last day?"

MR. HOPFERD—"Just a minute before you go."

MR. SLATTER—"I've done everything short of getting on my knees and begging you to do that properly."

MR. PICKLES—"You'd be surprised how many nice people there are in the world who are not in the teaching profession."

MR. DICKINSON—"Don't get nervous. You can do it just as well as I can."

MISS EMFRY—"Make the background spaces interesting and the rest will be all right."

MISS EVERSON—"Serve your dishes when they are piping hot."

MISS GAHAN—"Sign up!"

MISS HEFFERNAN—"Who made the last long distance call?"

STUDENT TEACHER—"Watch the board carefully while I go through it again."

As you journey on through life, "brother,"
Whatever be the goal,
Keep your eye on the doughnut,
And not upon the hole.

MR. HOPFERD—"Where do we get steel wool?"

MILDRED WHARRY—"From the shavings off hydraulic rams."

LOST AGAIN?

TEACHER—"Find the least common denominator."

BETTY—"Goodness, is that thing lost again?"

MUST BE DANGEROUS

The wife of a naval man handed the pastor this note: "Peter Bowers, having gone to sea, his wife desires the prayers of the congregation for his safety."

The minister glanced over it hastily and announced: "Peter Bowers, having gone to see his wife, desires the prayers of the congregation for his safety."

HIS RECORD

PASSENGER (on first auto ride)—"You drive pretty fast, don't you?"

MOTORIST—"I hit sixty yesterday."

PASSENGER—"Kill any of them?"

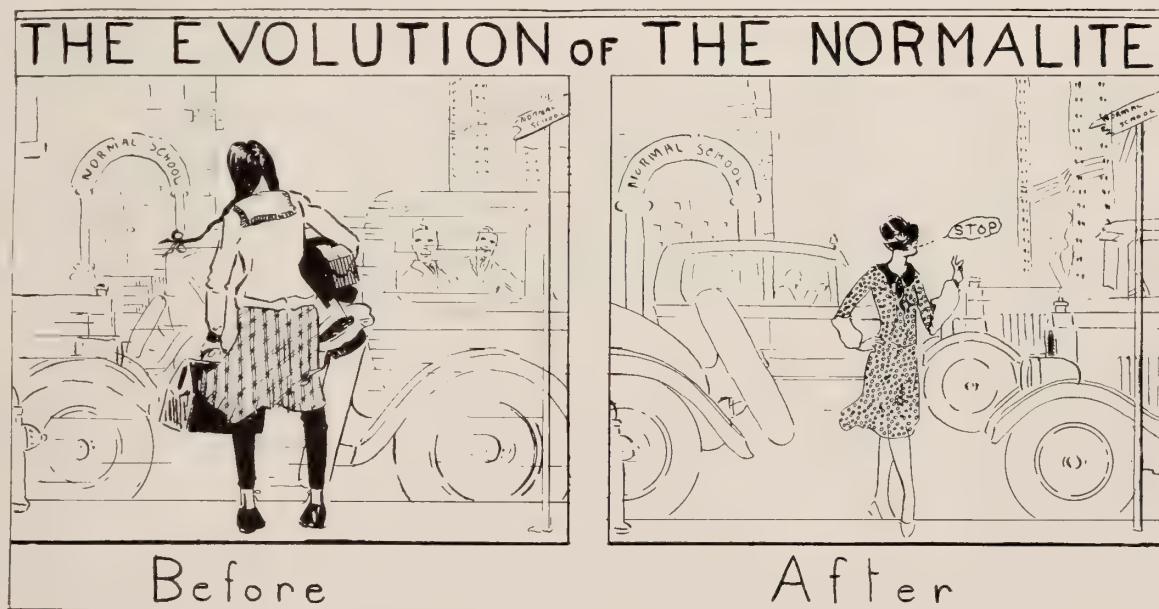

An Englishman heard an owl for the first time.

"What is that?" he asked.

"An owl," was the reply.

"My deah fellah, I know that, but what was 'owling?'"

MR. PICKLES (to student in the workshop)—"Don't use the sledge hammer to break that box apart. Use your head."

TEACHER (with Tommy by the collar)—“I believe Satan himself has got hold of you.”

TOMMY (struggling to get away)—“I believe so myself.”

MR. CLARKE—“What is a cauliflower?”

M. TOWNSEND—“A cauliflower is a cabbage with a college education.”

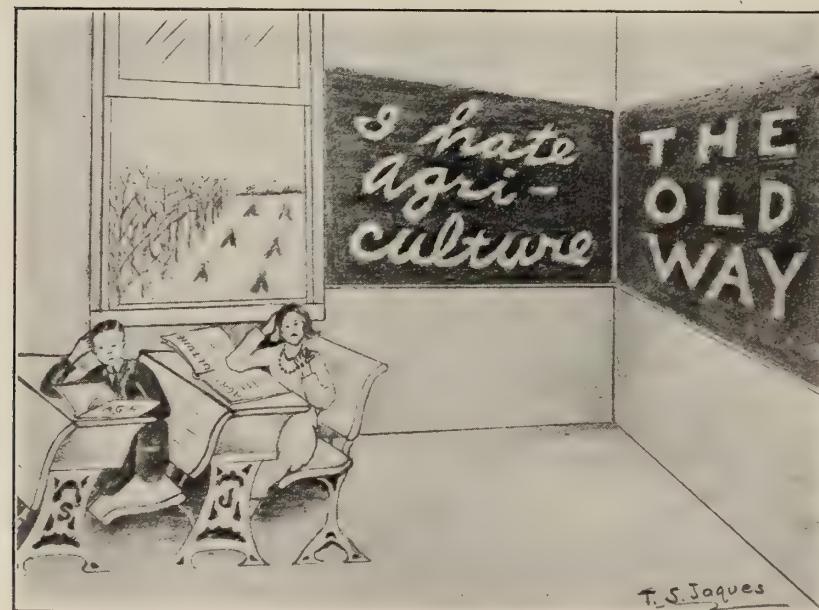

MCTAVISH (who has hailed a taxi from ranks)—“What will it be tae tak me tae the station?”

DRIVER—“Two and six, sir.”

MCTAVISH—“Thank’ee—Ah just wanted tae ken what ah’d save by walkin’!”

“Well, Tommy, are you able to keep your place in the class?” asked the fond father.

“Yes, dad; I began at the foot and there’s not a single boy been able to take it from me.”

THAT'S ALL.

A six-year-old girl submitted the following composition on “People” to her teacher:

“People are composed of girls and boys, also men and women. Boys are no good at all until they grow up and get married. Men who don’t get married are no good either. Boys are an awful bother. They want everything they see, except soap.. My ma is a woman, my pa is a man. A woman is a grown-up girl with children. My pa is such a nice man that I think he must have been a girl when he was a boy.”

COLLECTIONS OF THE YEAR'S BEST SIMILES.

That tree looks like a cactus in the desert.

Don’t sit there and look like so many clams on a sandbank. Don’t make the arm look like a sausage.

IRATE WOMAN (returning dog to Mr. McKone)—“I thought you said this animal was a bird dog. I have had him three weeks, and he hasn’t sung a single note.”

A GREAT COMFORT

A rich, but very eccentric man died. The clergyman, who was young, and new to the parish thought it a fitting opportunity to call and comfort the widow. “You must not grieve,” he told her. “The body that lies here is not your husband. It is merely a husk, an empty shell—the nut has gone to heaven.”

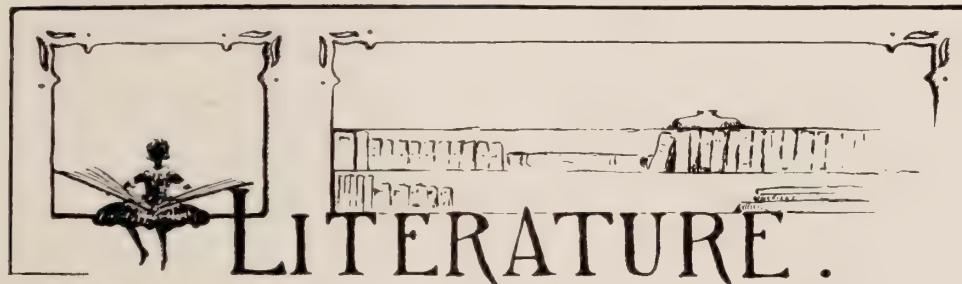

DR. WHITE (taking up an arithmetic problem)—“What is velocity?”

THOMSON—“Velocity is what a man puts a hot plate down with.”

OLD DARKEY (to Shiftless friend)—“I heard tell you is gwine to pay me dat dollah you owes me. Is you?”

FRIEND (ingratiatingly)—“I ain’t saying I ain’t.”

OLD DARKEY (severely)—“I ain’t ask you is you ain’t; I ask you ain’t you is.”

ENDEAVOR

Strive, endeavor; it profits more
To fight and fail, than on Time's dull shore
 To sit and idle ever;
For to him who bares his arm to the strife,
Firm at his post in the battle of life,
 The victory faileth never.

LONGING.

Of all the myriad moods of mind
 That through the soul come thronging,
Which one was e'er so dear, so kind,
 So beautiful as Longing?
The thing we long for, that we are
 For one transcendent moment,
Before the Present, poor and bare,
 Can make its sneering comment.

Still through our paltry stir and strife
 Glows down the wished Ideal,
And Longing moulds in clay what Life
 Carves in the marble Real;

To let the new life in, we know,
 Desire must ope the portal;—
Perhaps the longing to be so
 Helps make the soul immortal.

Longing is God's fresh heavenward will
 With our poor earthward striving;
We quench it that we may be still
 Content with merely living;
But would we learn that heart's full scope
 Which we are hourly wronging
Our lives must climb from hope to hope
 And realize our longing.

Ah! let us hope that to our praise
 Good God not only reckons
The moments when we tread His ways
 But when the spirit beckons,—
That some slight good is also wrought
 Beyond self-satisfaction,
When we are simply good in thought
 Howe'er we fail in action.

LEARN TO KEEP HOUSE

Beautiful maidens, ay, Nature's fair queens!
Some of you twenties, some of you teens;
Seeking accomplishments worthy your aim,
Striving for learning, thirsting for fame;
Taking such pains with the style of your hair,
Keeping your lily complexions so fair,
Miss not this item in all your gay lives,
Learn to keep house—you may some day be wives.

DOES THIS MEAN YOU?

Ernest Hopkins, president of Dartmouth College, recently remarked that the greatest pest in any institution, whether a business office or college classroom, is the fellow who is not quite bad enough to fire but who just barely gets by.

Our O. A. C. Excursion

OBJECT:—To cultivate in us a wider and a more scientific attitude of mind in regard to Agriculture and Horticulture.

REQUISITES:—A fine day; $2.65 and two lunches each; on time for our special train; a determination to make the most of the day educationally.

METHODS:—Observational, lecturing, questioning.

MATTER:—Far too much we saw and heard in the various Departments to relate in this brief space—Animal Husbandry, Dairying, Poultry, Museum, Horticulture and Floriculture, Field Husbandry, Sports.

REVIEW:—Somewhat cold and bleak broke the rosy dawn on the morning of June 3. Innumerable small, white, fleecy clouds studded the sky. For some reason, perhaps best known by the physicist, one of them was always in front of the sun, dodge where you would. Nevertheless, in spite of the bleakness of the morning, some two hundred Normalites were at the C. N. R. Station to board our special train at 7.00 o'clock.

Soon, with the clanging of the bell, the wheels began slowly and laboriously to turn, and off we were to the O. A. C., Guelph. But not without a stop. Having been welcomed by the Stratford Normalites, and having welcomed ourselves to Stratford, we permitted the aforesaid students to get aboard our two front coaches. Amid song and laughter the train was soon again at high speed.

At Guelph we all hurriedly left our coaches and wandered hither and thither, looking for our special street cars to convey us to the College grounds, where our real tour of observation and instruction was to begin.

Our time was fixed and limited, for there were others to be considered—students from Stratford, Hamilton, Toronto—so we were obliged to follow out a definite schedule outlined for us. Who can readily forget those fat and sleek Herefords, Aberdeen-Angus and Shorthorn cattle? Those spick and span dairy stables? That cheese-making room, the milk coolers, the milk condensers, the huge churning and the pasteurizers?

These observations will linger long in the memory of every student. "What is the best substitute for sunlight," we were asked by the chicken man, Prof. Graham. How well he impressed a few facts upon us we shall never forget. How did the sprayer work in the apple orchard? This was made clear and interesting to us.

Then we proceeded in a long procession up to the Museum to behold there the wonderful works of both nature and art. We were loath to leave this place for here we could have feasted for days. But we were told that time was up, and that we must now go to the Department of Horticulture. Here of special interest were the greenhouses, which we all much enjoyed. Thence we proceeded to the Field Husbandry Department, to be directed by Prof. Squirrel. Here we saw a spacious place, all well ordered and organized. But 12.30 noon was upon us and nothing to eat yet. No invitation was needed to every lunch basket.

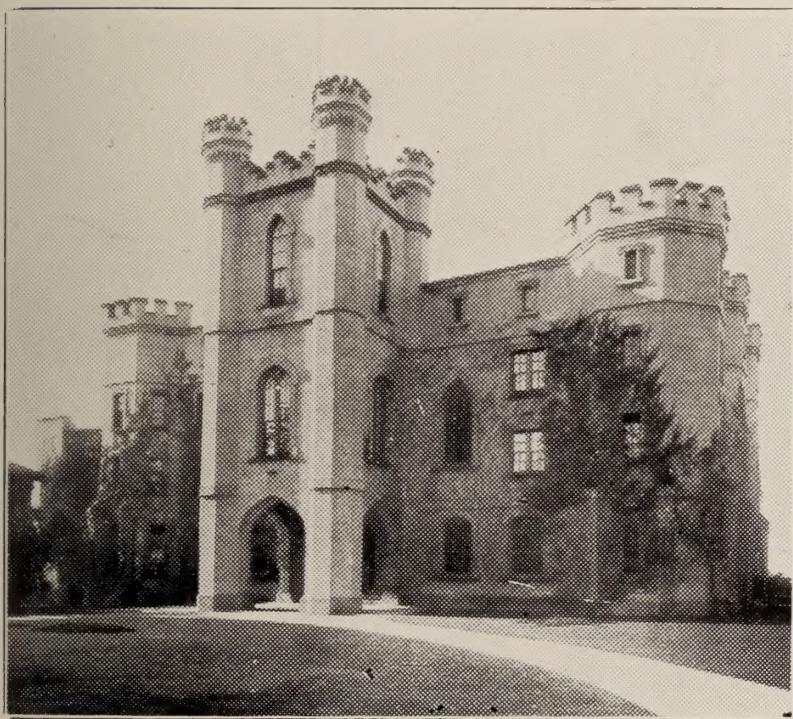

After lunch all the Schools were invited to assemble in Memorial Hall, where we were addressed by President Reynolds, Mr. Gibson, of British Columbia, and Principals Radcliffe and Silcox.

The next order on the program was to repair to the soft ball diamonds, where the Schools battled royally for the pennants. E'en though we did our best, neither our boys or our girls could do better than lose one game and win one.

"Oh! nearly seven o'clock. Hurry now! Our train leaves at seven twenty-five! Some had lunches eaten, and some had not; some were ready, some were not; some had to be searched for or left behind in a restaurant; and some were wondering why this world is so cruel to helpless mortals, for they did not yet wish to leave.

We reached home at ten o'clock with memories of a happy and profitable day. But stop! Some of us had the anticipation of an examination on the morrow!

THE COURT HOUSE

Sad, but necessary to relate, some of our worthy Normal students were required to attend the Winter Assizes.

No, No! They didn't break the speed limit; it was merely in the interests of civics that they made their debut into court.
